

THE AMBASSADOR'S STORY

Inspired by the poem by Sufi Master Rumi

ONCE, long ago in a far, distant land the King called one of his Ambassadors to him and asked him to perform a special task, to deliver a message, in a scroll, to the people living in the Land Beyond the Rainbow. The ambassador felt proud and honoured to have been chosen, but before Spring was over he had put the scroll aside and had got distracted with other jobs. Would he ever remember what he'd set out to do?
